Major Renovations in 1997

There were major renovations to both the Allen Hunter Cemetery and the Jacob Hunter Cemetery this past year. All of the old monuments in the Allen Hunter Cemetery were cleaned and two monuments that were falling over were provided new concrete foundations. The Allen Hunter stone was re-lettered, cleaned, and re-sealed.

Monuments at the Jacob Hunter Cemetery were cleaned and seven new markers were installed. New monuments were made for: Judith Lee Hunter b. 1/6/1791 d. 8/8/1852; Mary Bess Hunter b. 1811 d. 1887; Jacob Hunter b. 1/18/1809 d. 12/21/1874; Mary Moore Duncan Hunter b. 5/1/1814 d. 8/21/1896; Thomas Riley Hunter b. 10/19/1834 d. 8/25/1866; Susan Sanders Hunter b. 1840 d. 3/16/1864; and Lyndia Spiller Hunter b. 10/6/1819 d. 2/8/1876. There were three monument companies that provided bids on the restoration project. American Monuments of Marion was selected to do the work. The cost was $ 2,059. This work represents major improvements to the cemeteries.

Monuments were provided for people who had never had one and for the graves where the stones were no longer legible. As additional funds are raised, more monuments will be purchased.

C.E. "Ted" Peck Shares His Research

Mr. Ted Peck writes:

"My mother's (Helen Lee White Peck) grandfather was Dr. Charles T. Hunter of Springerton, IL. His grandfather, in turn, was Emmanuel Hunter. Thus my interest in the Hunter genealogy. My brother, Raymond, who died a few years ago, did the hard work of accumulating genealogical facts before the availability of computers and good genealogical software. These new innovations make the processes of genealogy easy."

The enclosed "Ahnentafel" Report prepared by Mr. Ted Peck represents a format that organizes the names of the ancestors by generation, and which provides space for reporting all the facts and notes that one might have collected about that individual. Mr. Peck stated, "I sincerely hope that some of you have some information which might supplement that which shows in my Ahnentafel Report. Equally important would be your letting me know of places where my notes are mistaken!"

In addition to providing the very detailed Ahnentafel Report included with this edition of the Newsletter, Mr. Peck also provided a two-page insert providing a sketch of the Reverend D.A. Hunter, son of the Reverend Allen Hunter, that was taken from a 1905 writing by J.F. Wilcox.

The Trust is grateful to Mr. Peck for sharing his research. Anyone wanting to correspond with Ted Peck may write to him at 6855 Pea Neck Road, St. Michaels, Maryland 21663

1997 Financial Report

Thanks to the generous support of several, the Trust remained financially sound throughout 1997. The Trust spent $ 1,470 on maintenance during 1997 ensuring that both the Allen Hunter and Jacob Hunter Cemeteries were mowed and maintained in a respectable condition. In addition, there were major expenditures related to cleaning, refurbishing, and installing new markers.

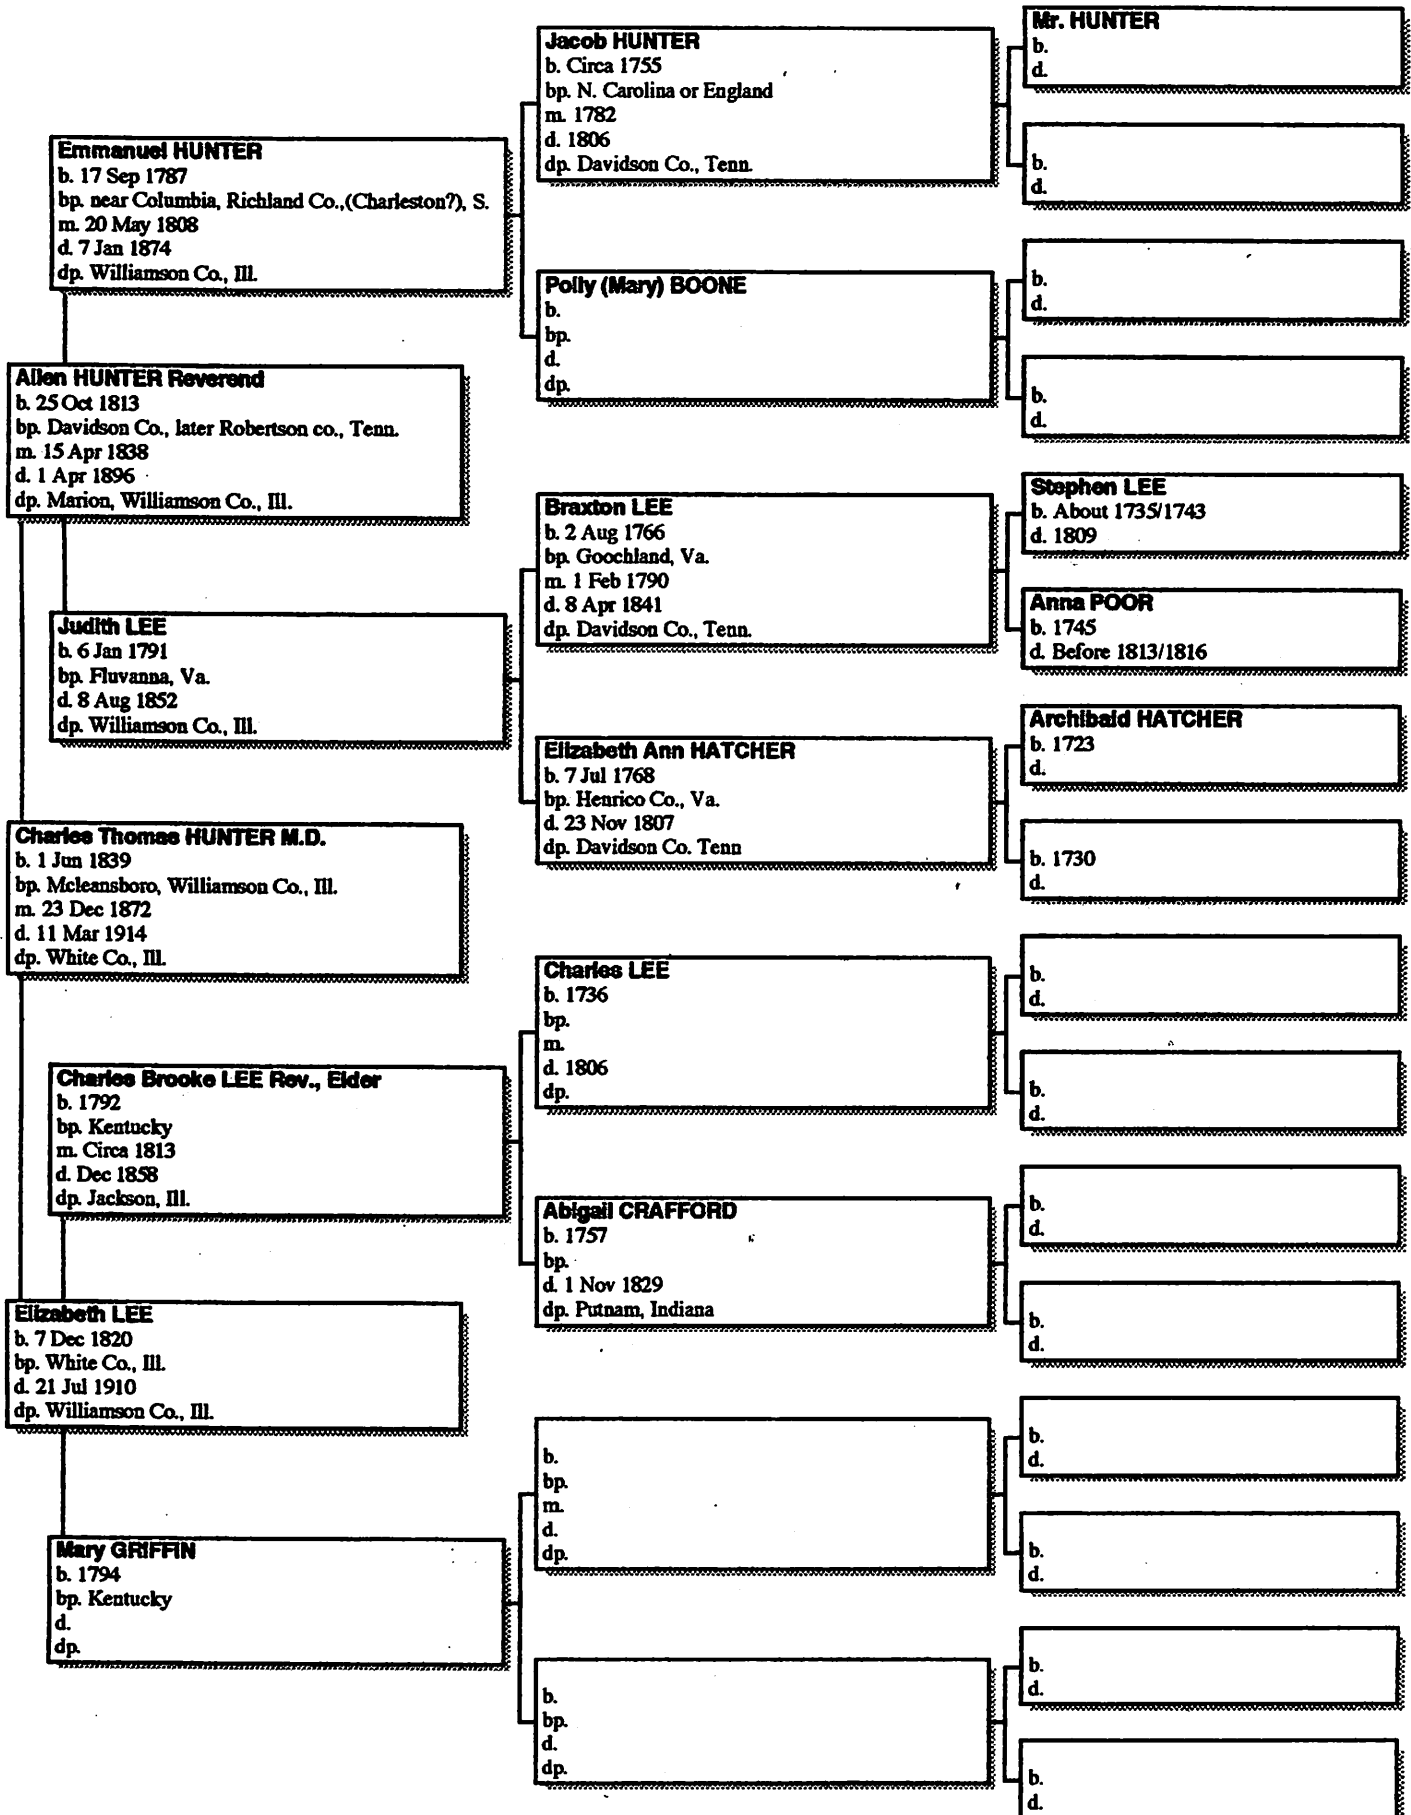

Attached to this Newsletter is the detail on all income and expenditures for the Trust in 1997.

For those wishing to donate additional funds, the Jacob Hunter Trust is registered with the IRS as a Tax Exempt 501 (c) (13) organization. Our Federal Identification Number is 37-6135793.

Future Work Planned

Future investment in our cemeteries will include purchasing additional markers for people who have never had one, making fence repairs at the Allen Hunter Cemetery, and repainting signs at both cemeteries. Our family cemeteries are now being maintained in a way that we can all feel proud.

Reverend D. A. Hunter - Pastor of Christian Church, Herrin, Illinois

"The subject of this brief sketch, whose labors in the ministry have made his name a familiar household word over half a dozen or more states and territories in the West, is a native-born Williamson County product, where he first saw the light on a farm near Herrin. His father was Allen Hunter, who bought the farm when his son was one year old, and where he lived to the ripe old age of 83. He was a United Baptist preacher, preaching the Gospel Sundays and working his farm weekdays for upwards of fifty years. The son followed in the footsteps of the father, remaining on the farm and in the local schools until 18 years old, when he spent a year in the college at Enfield. Two years at McLeansboro, followed by two more at Enfield, closed his school days, when he turned his attention to teaching as a profession. He had sandwiched teaching between terms at College up to this time, but from this period forward for thirteen years he did little else.

He married at age of 22, while at Enfield the second time. His wife's name was Florence Garrison.

He first joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, with which body he remained until 26 years old. At the age of 26, he joined the Christian Church and occasionally preached for them, but it was not until he was 33 that he laid aside all other business and gave himself up to the work of the ministry. He first evangelized in White County for three years and spent two years in Southern Illinois and Indiana, when he took a pastorate at Gurnee, in Lake County, Northern Illinois. From the first he has been active and successful as a minister, laboring and traveling extensively in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Oklahoma, but whether as evangelist or Missionary or settled as a pastor he was always successful and welcomed to his flock.

The following are the principal places where he has labored: On leaving Gurnee, where he spent one year, he went to Lynnville, Morgan county; then to Princeton, the County Seat of Bureau Co, then to KesKerk County, Iowa, where he served the church at Delta and Sigourney for four years. This was followed by two years at Laurels, when he resigned and took charge of the church at Jefferson, Green County, Iowa, where he stayed for seven years, the first two as pastor, and the balance of the time as Evangelist, part of the time under the direction of the Missionary Board. He served the church at Augusta, Butler County, Kansas, two years, then to Galena, near the Southeast corner of the state. He then received a call to serve the church at Herrin, his native town, where he is now settled since March, 1904.

Mr. Hunter has a vigorous and active brain, which brooks no limit in knowledge, but seeks to compass as wide a field as possible. He has studied medicine, psychology, osteopathy, as well as matters of general interest and utility connected with the ministry. He has never practiced medicine as a profession, and osteopathy but six months, filling the pulpit Sundays meanwhile. He took his degree in psychology from Dr. Parkyn of Chicago, confining his work generally to the ministry. He at one time took some interest in Fraternal Insurance and organized the Order of Giant Oaks, now consolidated with the American Guild at Richmond, Va. He is a member of the Modern Woodsmen and A. O. U. W. besides the greater orders of Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, and Knights Templar.

He has three sons and one daughter living and grown to maturity. His eldest son, E. E. Hunter, is an electric light and steam engineer at Oklahoma City, Okla. His second son, C. R. Hunter, is a train dispatcher of Boone, Iowa, and his third son, Marshall, is the editor and publisher of the Herrin Daily Promoter. His daughter, Mildred Lee Hunter, lives in Joplin, Mo. His youngest child, Dempsey Dale, died of diphtheria last December.

Mr. Hunter comes of a vigorous and long-lived stock on both sides. His mother, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Lee, of the Virginia family of Lee's is still living on the old homestead near Herrin, at the age of 84.

Additional from 1905 Historical Souvenir of Williamson County, Illinois

• Lafayette Hunter was "one of the men who had charge of the schools, tyhat are remembered as being strong, successful school men by many of our citizens". He is listed as being involved in 1889-90.

• Clyde Hunter was listed as a member of the choir of Chrisitan Church in Carterville, Illinois, singing bass.

Are You a Potential Genealogist?

Mr. C.E. "Ted" Peck's contribution to this newsletter is but one example of how computers have revolutionized the practice of genealogical research. In the last few years there has been enormous progress made by companies providing computer software to assist interested researchers to compile extensive family histories. One company, Broderbund, developed a product called Family Tree Maker that has enticed many into the hobby of developing extensive family histories. Even more exciting is the ever growing volumes of historical data this company makes available on compact discs. Now a computer can search a CD containing hundreds of thousands of records saving countless hours of research. Further, people can now post their family trees on a web site for others to access.

The Trust would like to hear from anyone interested in utilizing this new technology to develop family histories. Broderbund can be contacted at 800/548-1804, or online at: www.familytreemaker.com.
